What do I need to know about the Film Production market?

The following summary statistics have been taken from market research reports and reliable resources that the Information Service uses to compile industry information. They should give you an indication of how your industry is faring at present and whether there is demand for your type of business:

♦ Over the five years through 2018-19, industry revenue is expected to expand at a compound annual rate of 6.2% to £3.1 billion, despite declining by a forecast 0.5% in the current year, brought on by weak demand from film, video and TV programme distribution. Over the past five years, an increasing number of high-budget films have been produced in the United Kingdom. The availability of government tax incentives has been a major driver of industry growth, particularly for domestically financed productions, but also for attracting inward investment. The UK Film Tax Relief programme has attracted film producers and contributed to the expansion of UK studio capacity. (IBISWorld, Motion Picture Production in the UK, January 2019)

♦ The performance of the Film, Video and TV Programme Post-Production industry is influenced by demand from key markets, technological developments and the competitive position afforded to the industry by tax incentives. IBISWorld expects industry revenue to grow at a compound annual rate of 4.6% over the five years through 2019-20. Large shifts in demand from film producers have shaped the way the industry has developed. Revenue is forecast to grow by 3.5% in the current year to £2.1 billion. Over the five years through 2024-25, industry revenue is expected to grow at a compound annual rate of 0.7% to reach £2.1 billion. Funding from Creative Europe is expected to continue through 2020, to the benefit of the film industries and, consequently, industry demand. (IBISWorld, Film, Video & TV Programme Post-Production in the UK, June 2019)

♦ The UK movies & entertainment market had total revenues of $3,711.6m in 2017, representing a compound annual rate of change (CARC) of -5.6% between 2013 and 2017. The music and video segment was the market's most lucrative in 2017, with total revenues of $2,070.8m, equivalent to 55.8% of the market's overall value. The box office segment contributed revenues of $1,640.8m in 2017, equating to 44.2% of the market's aggregate value. The performance of the market is forecast to decline further but at a slower pace, with an anticipated CARC of -2.3% for the five-year period 2017 - 2022, which is expected to drive the market to a value of $3,310.9m by the end of 2022. (MarketLine, Movies & Entertainment in the United Kingdom, July 2018)

♦ The national organisation for this industry is Creative Scotland. Other industry bodies include the British Film Institute, the British Academy of Film and Television Arts (Scotland), the UK Screen Alliance, Cultural Enterprise Office, the British Film Commission and the Producers Alliance for Cinema and Television (Pact).
Where can I find more information on my market?

The Information Service has access to a number of databases which can offer more detail on this industry. Some of these reports are listed below - if you would like to be sent extracts from any of these reports, please contact us on 0300 013 4753 or email info@bgateway.com.

♦ IBISWorld – Motion Picture Production in the UK (January 2019) - The UK film industry has grown quickly in recent decades. The number of new feature films beginning production in the United Kingdom has been significantly higher in recent years than in the early part of the past decade. According to the BFI, the total number of UK feature films produced each year grew from an average of 43 in the 1980s to 83 in the 1990s to more than 200 in the past five years. According to figures published in January 2016 by the Department for Digital, Culture, Media and Sport, UK creative industries, of which the Motion Picture Production industry is a large part, are worth approximately £84.1 billion per year to the UK economy. This equates to these industries generating approximately £9.6 million per hour. In October 2016, UK television and film production industries were acknowledged by the government as one of the top performing sectors of the economy.

♦ IBISWorld – Film, Video & TV Programme Post-Production in the UK (June 2019) - The Film, Video and TV Programme Post-Production industry is expected to grow notably over the five years through 2019-20. The industry’s performance is highly dependent on demand from key markets within the UK’s creative media sector. While government incentives and funding can change overall trends through altering the competitive position of the industry relative to similar industries across the globe, the majority of annual shifts result from the projects that are popular in the creative industries during that time. The industry is characterised by fluctuating revenue caused by the volatile nature of the industry’s key markets. In the current year, approximately 32.8% of revenue is expected to be generated by film producers, largely through a small number of big-budget films.

How can I find out about my competitors?

Business Gateway’s online guide to Competitor Analysis explains how to find your competitors, how to research what they’re doing and how to act on what you learn about them.

Immediate competition will be from other businesses in your local area. There are several online directories which can be used to find company information and generate lists easily and at no expense. Many Local Authorities also publish local business directories on the web. Below are some key web resources:

♦ General business directories such as Yell, Thomson Local or Google Maps
♦ Trade specialists like EuroPages (European directory), The Wholesaler or Free Index
♦ Business to business (B2B) specialists such as Kompass

Likewise, your local Chamber of Commerce may publish a members’ directory; find your local Chamber on the Scottish Chambers website.

Once you’ve identified who your competitors are, the next step is to gather information on the way they do business. Which services do they provide? How do they market themselves? How much do they charge?

To learn about your competitors:

♦ Look for articles or adverts in local newspapers, trade press and directories.
♦ Try to read their marketing material; if the company has an online presence, visit the company’s website as a first port of call. Not only does it give you a better understanding of the company’s activities, it can also offer a wealth of information such as a company history or staff biographies, as well as the company’s partners or suppliers
♦ Search for information on limited UK companies via the Companies House website
♦ Gain an insight into your competitor’s performance using credit checks and the accounts that limited companies are required to submit to Companies House each year.

We can provide credit checks free of charge; if you are interested in using this resource, or looking for us to help you find relevant publications, please contact us by emailing info@bgateway.com or by calling 0300 013 4753
What about suppliers?

Choosing and Managing Suppliers can help you decide what you need from a supplier, how to identify one and how to choose one to deal with.

Trade associations or industry specific organisations may also be able to recommend suppliers or contacts. You can also use the aforementioned resources for finding competitors to find suppliers.

Once you have decided on a supplier, we can run a credit check on the company to help assess their financial stability. We provide credit checks free of charge; if you are interested in using the resource please info@bgateway.com or by calling 0300 013 4753.

Who are my customers?

Your business plan should include information about the customers you would expect. Business Gateway’s guides on Retaining and Grow Your Customer Base will help you to identify who your customers are, how to use this information to sell more effectively and how to actively compete in your marketplace.

It can be useful to group your customers by geographical location, age or lifestyle. The websites listed below are freely available and can provide most of this information. If you can’t find what you’re looking for from these website, please contact us and one of the team will be happy to help:

- Access the latest population estimates from the National Records of Scotland (NRS). NRS also offers demographic factsheets for each council area in Scotland, which can provide summary statistics for the area you will be based in.
- Information from the most recent census in 2011 is released via the official website. See in particular the Census Area Profiles. Clicking on your area of interest will give the latest population figures, including estimates by age.
- Understanding Scottish Places has interactive profiles of towns and cities across Scotland. It can be useful for understanding the interrelationships and flows between towns, and also gives comparisons between two or more places.
- Scottish Government Statistics provide accurate and up-to-date statistics on Scotland, covering population, health, education and housing.
- The Scottish Household Survey provides information on the structure, characteristics, attitudes and behaviour of Scottish households, both at a national and local level.
- Office for National Statistics (ONS) is the recognised national statistical body for the UK. ONS covers a wide range of demographic, economic and social issues at a UK level.
