What do I need to know about the Translation & Interpretation market?

The following summary statistics have been taken from market research reports and reliable resources that the Information Service uses to compile industry information. They should give you an indication of how your industry is faring at present and whether there is demand for your type of business:

- ◆ The estimated value of the language industry across the European Union was approximately €16 billion in 2015, with a projected year-on-year growth of around 10%. In the UK alone, the language services industry was recently estimated to be over £1 billion, making the UK one of the largest markets for language services. This figure only includes Language Services Businesses and does not even take into account the revenue generated by self-employed freelancers. The industry is also one of the fastest-growing – in the UK, EU and globally – with double-digit annual growth in recent years (Institute of Translation and Interpreting (ITA), The Industry in Context) (tinyurl.com/y2okvag2).
- ◆ One particular area of growth in the translation industry is the e-commerce sector, as more and more companies trade online across different markets. Hand in hand with this is the growth of the legal and patent sector, as those companies seek to protect their business interests and intellectual property in the wider international marketplace (Institute of Translation and Interpreting (ITA), The Industry in Context) (tinyurl.com/y2okvag2).
- ◆ the major European languages are those most commonly mentioned as being in demand [by businesses] remain led by French (54%) and German (51%), and Spanish (50%). The major European economies are still the largest export markets for British goods and are likely to remain so after Brexit. The growing demand for Spanish reflects its use both in Europe and Latin America (CBI, Educating for the Modern World, CBI/Pearson Education and Skills Annual Report, November 2018) (tinyurl.com/yxamuuvu).
- ◆ The national organisation for this industry is the Institute of Translation & Interpreting. Other industry bodies include the Association of Translation Companies, the International Association of Conference Interpreters, the National Register of Public Service Interpreters, the Chartered Institute of Linguists, as well as The Association of Sign Language Interpreters and SCILT \(Scotland's National Centre for Languages\).

Where can I find more information on my market?

The Information Service has access to a number of databases which can offer more detail on this industry. Some of these reports are listed below - if you would like to be sent extracts from any of these reports, please contact us on 0300 013 4753 or email info@bgateway.com.

The Translation & Interpretation industry unfortunately is not covered in our databases in any great depth. However, there are a number of online resources that may provide further insight:

- ◆ British Council – *Languages for the Future (2017). This report looks at the linguistic dimension of the far-reaching changes which are under way and at the outlook for the supply and demand for language competence in the years ahead. It updates the British Council's 2013 report Languages for the future, which provided the first systematic analysis of the UK's language needs, looking at a variety of economic, geopolitical, cultural and educational indicators, and scoring different languages against these. It identifies the languages which will be of crucial importance for the UK's future prosperity, security and influence in the world (tinyurl.com/yyhat6gw).
- ◆ European Commission, Chartered Institute of Linguists (CIOL) and Institute of Translation and Interpreting (ITI) – *UK Translator Survey (2017). This survey of professionals in the UK's translation sector paints a collective portrait of the translation scene and canvasses translators' views about the profession. It is broken into two sections: general working environment, and the use of translation tools and technologies (tinyurl.com/y6m8zlew).
- ◆ The Institute of Translation and Interpreting (ITI) has a Language Services directory that can be searched by a number of criteria, including language, subject matter, and name of the individual or business (tinyurl.com/y65kn2t4).
- ◆ The Chartered Institute of Linguists (CIOL) has a Scottish society which meets four times a year and runs a variety of professional development (CPD) events, benefiting both CIOL members and non-members. (tinyurl.com/y4ycl865).
- ◆ My World of Work has career profiles for a number of industries – including translator (tinyurl.com/y6z3rw5u) and interpreter (tinyurl.com/y3krvqdy) - which show the average UK salary, number of people in the industry currently employed in Scotland, and a five year job forecast amongst other information on training, qualifications and operational environments.

How can I find out about my competitors?

Business Gateway's online guide to Competitor Analysis explains how to find your competitors, how to research what they're doing and how to act on what you learn about them.

Immediate competition will be from other businesses in your local area. There are several online directories which can be used to find company information and generate lists easily and at no expense. Many Local Authorities also publish local business directories on the web. Below are some key web resources:

- ◆ General business directories such as Yell ,Thomson Local or Google Maps
- ◆ Trade specialists like EuroPages (European directory), The Wholesaler or Free Index
- ◆ Business to business (B2B) specialists such as Kompass

Likewise, your local Chamber of Commerce may publish a members' directory; find your local Chamber on the Scottish Chambers website.

Once you've identified who your competitors are, the next step is to gather information on the way they do business. Which services do they provide? How do they market themselves? How much do they charge?

To learn about your competitors:

- ◆ Look for articles or adverts in local newspapers, trade press and directories.
- ◆ Try to read their marketing material; if the company has an online presence, visit the company's website as a first port of call. Not only does it give you a better understanding of the company's activities, it can also offer a wealth of information such as a company history or staff biographies, as well as the company's partners or suppliers
- ◆ Search for information on limited UK companies via the Companies House website
- ◆ Gain an insight into your competitor's performance using credit checks and the accounts that limited companies are required to submit to Companies House each year.

We can provide credit checks free of charge; if you are interested in using this resource, or looking for us to help you find relevant publications, please contact us by emailing info@bgateway.com or by calling 0300 013 4753

What about suppliers?

Choosing and Managing Suppliers can help you decide what you need from a supplier, how to identify one and how to choose one to deal with.

Trade associations or industry specific organisations may also be able to recommend suppliers or contacts. You can also use the aforementioned resources for finding competitors to find suppliers.

Once you have decided on a supplier, we can run a credit check on the company to help assess their financial stability. We provide credit checks free of charge; if you are interested in using the resource please info@bgateway.com or by calling 0300 013 4753.

Who are my customers?

Your business plan should include information about the customers you would expect. Business Gateway's guides on Retaining and Grow Your Customer Base will help you to identify who your customers are, how to use this information to sell more effectively and how to actively compete in your marketplace.

It can be useful to group your customers by geographical location, age or lifestyle. The websites listed below are freely available and can provide most of this information. If you can't find what you're looking for from these website, please contact us and one of the team will be happy to help:

- ◆ Access the latest population estimates from the National Records of Scotland \(NRS\). NRS also offers demographic factsheets for each council area in Scotland, which can provide summary statistics for the area you will be based in.
- ◆ Information from the most recent census in 2011 is released via the official website. See in particular the Census Area Profiles. Clicking on your area of interest will give the latest population figures, including estimates by age.
- ◆ Understanding Scottish Places has interactive profiles of towns and cities across Scotland. It can be useful for understanding the interrelationships and flows between towns, and also gives comparisons between two or more places.
- ◆ Scottish Government Statistics provide accurate and up-to-date statistics on Scotland, covering population, health, education and housing.
- ◆ The Scottish Household Survey provides information on the structure, characteristics, attitudes and behaviour of Scottish households, both at a national and local level.
- ◆ Office for National Statistics \(ONS\) is the recognised national statistical body for the UK. ONS covers a wide range of demographic, economic and social issues at a UK level.
